

Restrictive Housing Data Report

Third Quarter 2023

This brief report describes 1) characteristics of the population assigned to restrictive housing on September 30, 2023, and 2) trends in the average daily population and length of stay in restrictive housing from January 1, 2016 to September 30, 2023.

Data Source(s). OMNI as of December 3, 2023

Population Snapshot

Individuals assigned to restrictive housing on September 30, 2023 are described by race and ethnicity, Security Threat Group (STG) status, and STG affiliation.

Race or ethnicity. Given the racial and ethnic composition of the general population, American Indian or Alaska Native individuals’ share of the administrative segregation and maximum custody population was significantly larger than their share of the general population (Table 1).

*Bayes factor > 3 favors hypothesis that group probability is greater than expected given composition of the general population.

Security Threat Group (STG) status. Probability of placement in administrative segregation (3.8%, i.e., 145 of 3,789) was nearly two times greater, and maximum custody (3.3%, i.e., 124 of 3,789) was nearly four times greater among STG members, suspects and affiliates compared to those not associated with an STG (2.0% in segregation; 0.9% in maximum custody).

*<1% of estimate’s posterior distribution in region of practical equivalence.

STG affiliation. Given the overall probability of administrative segregation and maximum custody in the STG population (3.8% and 3.3%, respectively), the White Supremacist group had a high probability of assignment to maximum custody (7.1%, i.e., 35 of 491).

Population Trends

Population trends are described by average daily population by week (“weekly ADP”) and average time in restrictive housing in the population exiting each month.

Weekly ADP. Figure 1 shows downward trends in overall weekly ADP, but increased variability in administrative segregation since January 2016. In the Third quarter of 2023, administrative segregation ADP decreased 19% from the year prior (419 versus 515 in Q3 2022); weekly ADP in maximum custody decreased by 8% from the year prior (203 versus 220 in Q3 2022).

Average time in restrictive housing. Figure 2 shows exits from administrative segregation after less than 60 days ( $n = 47,954$ , 92.3%), and after 60 days or more ( $n = 4,004$ , 7.7%). Third quarter 2023 decreased in the latter's length of stay compared to pre-COVID levels (-3% in length of stay from Q3 2019), an early indication of a return to pre-COVID averages for those exiting after 60 days or more.

NOTE: Red line indicates start of COVID-19 Emergency Operations Center, March 2, 2020.

Figure 3 shows maximum custody exits within 500 days of assignment ( $n = 3,072$ , 89.9%), and after 500 days or more ( $n = 345$ , 10.1%). In Q3 2023, average length of stay among those exiting within 500 days increased from the previous year (+5.5% in length of stay from Q3 2022).

NOTE: Red line indicates opening of COVID-19 Emergency Operations Center, March 2, 2020.

Table 4 shows the average time and number of individuals exiting administrative segregation in the Third quarter of 2023 by race and ethnicity. There was no indication of an association between length of stay in administrative segregation and race and ethnicity.

Table 5 shows average days and number of individuals exiting maximum custody in the Third quarter of 2023 by race and ethnicity. An association between race and days in maximum custody was uncertain given the data, but American Indian or Alaska Native's exiting maximum custody had the longest average length of stay, given an assignment of less than 500 days.
