

NON-DEPARTMENT JURISDICTION VIOLATION RESPONSE GUIDE

Community Corrections Officers (CCOs) and Indeterminate Sentence Review Board (Board) Hearings Investigators will use this guide when recommending a sanction in response to violation behavior. This guide may be used for individuals on community custody sentenced before May 31, 2012, who have not been Swift and Certain (SAC) orientated, and individuals under Community Custody Board (CCB), Juvenile Board (JUVBRD), or court jurisdiction.

The CCO has discretion in responding to violation behavior. All non-confinement options should be explored.

For individuals under Board jurisdiction, warnings, stipulated agreement(s), and changes to conditions of supervision require Board approval, and partial and total confinement sanctions may only be imposed by a Board member at a violation/revocation hearing.

- For individuals under Department jurisdiction, the Department has the authority to impose confinement of no more than 15 days per hearing, unless the individual is subject to a return under RCW 9.94A.633 or reclassification.
- For individuals under court jurisdiction, CCOs may recommend confinement of up to 60 days per violation or revocation.
- For individuals under Board jurisdiction, there is a presumption of graduated sanctioning for violation behavior.

* For these sanctions, the CCO will impose a condition to successfully complete the recommended panel/program/treatment, as necessary.
